

ABSTRACT

An in-device battery charging system for battery-powered devices is described. The system allows rechargeable batteries to be recharged without removing them from the battery-powered device. The charging system retrofits battery-powered devices intended for use with disposable batteries. In particular, standard sized batteries may be recharged, maintained, and monitored without removing them from the battery-powered device.